

PARKERISMS

PARAGRAPHS BY SAMUEL PARKER CONCERNING THINGS HERE AND THERE

Parker paragraphs plainly put; Pay no attention to those you do not read.

Possibly the others it might be well to heed.

It is very mortifying to our newly created spirit of California loyalty to read as we do in California papers paragraphs running thusly, "California is over run with thieves, burglars and robbers. If you come, don't bring any money. Don't go out nights, don't talk to strangers and so forth." Which leads us to ask what there is left worth coming after? My proclamation would be, "Come on everybody. This is a civilized country. We will put the thieves and gamblers out (or in the sea) to protect you.

Gov. Hunt made not a howling success of his double-barrelled arrangement for baptizing the battleship Arizona the other day. As governor of a prohibition state if he had anything at all to say about it he should have said as have governors of other dry states, "Water will be used." To attempt to use both booze and water, it is to the credit of water that it refused to act in the premises.

Whole carloads, yes, trainloads, of women have been coming and will continue to come all season from all over this broad land of ours. Not "assorted beauties," but the average good looking American woman, climatically clad for freedom, comfort, but not for display. It has been pleasant to notice how little these visitors have relied on jewelry to enhance their good looks. How little is seen. Those log chain necklaces are safer in the bank private box at home and verily they are not needed.

Again it is Kansas and the story of a young lady 26 years of age and weighing 800 pounds. In her school days they removed a large portion of one side of the school house to give her free entry. Her death occurred recently, hence this paragraph gets in the paper. A younger sister weighs nearly 500 pounds. The parents are of ordinary size. The next Kansas wonder may be among the midgits.

Gov. Clarke of Iowa like many others of his state is seeking comfort and climate on the coast and seems to have taken pleasure in telling out loud how scarce the "Bull Moose" were in the Hawkeye state. If we are not mistaken Gov. Clarke was nominated by the direct primary and if he ever is nominated again he will submit to the same process, and the next Republican national convention will be run by the "Bull Moose" machinery already prepared by the national convention.

Just at a time when we want to pull "all stops wide open" and make a joyful national noise it is unfortunate that our ineptness against the mother country don't fit as well as it did over a century ago. Our indictment of George the third as set forth in the declaration of independence has not the remotest reference to George the Fifth or the English people of today. "One language" has demonstrated great assimilating powers in the last 150 years.

The naval possibilities of 50 years ago at best were knocked out in one round between the Monitor and Merrimack off Fortress Monroe and while iron clads were not made far use immediately on the ocean, they became all the go on rivers and other inland waters. More complete has the under water armaments knocked out the ten million cost dreadnoughts of today that are not worth more for sea battle purposes than an Indian canoe propelled by a paddle.

Gov. Slaton of Georgia in the Frank case can most truly say or have others say for him, "Unmoved by prejudice and vulgar wit, if to thyself thou canst thyself acquit, rather stand up unawed in conscious pride alone, than err with millions by thy side." The days of chivalry are not over, brave deeds and noble official acts yet find men with backbone enough to perform. Georgia made proud history through the noble act of her governor.

The Good Samaritan is closely imitated every day and many times a day by the newspaper press of the country in an effort to find lost people, from the kidnapped or lost child to the aged pilgrim wandered away under a spell of dementia. No agony is quite so intense as that of suspense to the other's heart over a lost child in the city or in the wilderness.

RECEIVE DEGREES

GLENDALE YOUNG MEN ARE GRADUATED FROM UNIVERSITY LAW CLASS

The following letter from Dean Frank M. Porter of the College of Law, University of Southern California, is self explanatory:

I take pleasure in informing you of the recent graduation of Messrs. E. S. Patterson and Owen C. Emery, residents of your city, from the College of Law, University of Southern California. Each of them received the degree of LL.B.

Both these men have been very active in all affairs of a student body numbering 630 members. Mr. Patterson was this year editor-in-chief of the Stare Decisis, the annual publication of the College of Law. This is an elective office, and was obtained by Mr. Patterson by a large plurality over his opponent a year ago. He was also active in athletics, having been a member of the state championship baseball team of the College of Law a year ago, and a member of the varsity baseball team this year.

While working in a law office, Mr. Emery has taken time to take part in all the student affairs and was one of the most prominent members of his class.

ODD FELLOWS' DAY

The Independent Order of Odd Fellows gives promise of having by far the greatest number of members in line in the Fraternal Day parade of July 3 at San Diego the first of the three days of celebration centering around Independence Day. By train and boat and automobile members of the order will begin pouring into San Diego on July 2 for the biggest event the San Diego lodges have handled this year.

Col. H. S. Brown of Los Angeles announces Canton No. 12 will participate in the drill, which will be judged by army officers stationed in San Diego, and the famous American lodge degree team will be present. Pasadena Canton No. 37 with the chevaliers of Santa Barbara and Ventura, Major Walter G. Bryte announces, will come by special trains. Riverside canton, the largest in the southwest, is expected with Col. Karl C. Carleton, and R. L. Adams is bringing several hundred from the San Jacinto valley.

"Pomona canton No. 3 is coming down to take first prize," writes Capt. C. E. Greaser, adding "if some other canton doesn't beat us to it." An invitation to "come to the coast and cool off" was carried to Imperial valley members in El Centro, Brawley, Imperial and Calexico by automobile loads of San Diegans, and a good outpouring from the valley is expected. Covina and San Dimas are sending their delegations and Escondido should be especially strong as July 5 is Escondido day at the exposition.

Meantime the San Diego representatives in San Diego and Sunset lodges, Centennial encampment, Silver Gate and Ann Rebekah lodges, the Veteran Odd Fellows' association and San Diego canton, are working for the success of the morning parade, the drill at 2 p. m. and the evening festivities on the isthmus. Mayor Capps and Grand Master A. P. Johnson probably will give the principal public addresses.

LEAVE FOR BERKELEY

Miss Clara Provolt and Miss Bessie Provolt, 608 N. Central, will leave for Oakland tomorrow evening. Miss Clara Provolt has been appointed to an assistant teachership in the university summer school at Berkeley and will also take up summer work with some of the classes.

The free publication of varied cases is constantly restoring the lost and uniting parties long separated, often for many years.

Much unfriendly comment is seen in secular directions over the action of Rev. B. Fay Mills who saw proper recently to amend his religious belief at a point permitting him to return fully to the Presbyterian fold. His statements in this were clear and convincing, and the synod acted right in restoring him. Mills is a man of great ability. Such men amend their views often. For criticism on men who never change see Robt. G. Ingersoll on a "Bourbon."

"Hello, Billikens, glad to see you. I looked for you a month ago, but had about given you up. Did you bring your wife along?" "Yes, unfortunately." "How was that?" "Costs awfully." "What route did you come over?" "The receiver's route." "No; there is no such route." "You bet there is. They received all I could hand out all the way."

EYE WITNESS OF QUAKE

GLENDALE MAN SAW TREMBOR IN EL CENTRO AT ITS CRISIS

Into the midst of quaking ground and crumbling houses E. J. Morgan, 409 N. Central avenue, Tropic, drove his automobile Tuesday night, at El Centro. Mr. Morgan, who has a ranch about six and a half miles west of El Centro, was driving into the depot for the purpose of returning to Glendale with his family, on account of the illness of his boy who had been suffering greatly from the excessive heat of the valley, when the earthquake struck the district.

As far as he could judge it was about 8:05 p. m. when a little way out of El Centro he was cranking his Ford and noticed the peculiar swaying of the car. At first, he says, he thought something was wrong with himself. The sensation caused by the sudden discovery that the solid ground can heave and roll like a ship at sea was so amazing that there was little room for any other feeling but one of wonder. Part of the time also when the auto was moving the sensation seemed to belong to the movement of the car itself and was not noticeable.

Reaching the depot at El Centro it was seen that buildings had been thrown down in every direction and so great was the destruction that it is now a matter of wonder that no one was killed in that city. The large Holton power plant had apparently been badly hit, the building of the Delta Mercantile company was seriously injured, the Masonic Temple, in which Mr. Morgan, as worshipful master of the Glendale Masons, was naturally interested, was badly damaged; so was the Barbara Worth hotel and many other prominent buildings.

The shake was so bad that it almost threw Mr. Morgan off his feet. He was so interested in noting the effects of the new sensation on himself and the country around him that he did not pay particular attention to the time of its duration. Shortly after, however, occurred the second shock and Mr. Morgan estimated that it lasted 45 seconds. By this time the party had got on the train and were moving out of El Centro. The earthquake motion was perfectly noticeable in the train, which swayed in an alarming fashion.

There was no real panic in El Centro and only one party left the city by train from fear of what might happen. Mr. Morgan says that the people of the valley will begin reconstruction at once and that their losses will not overwhelm them, serious though they may be. In some ways the destruction of property may be a blessing as the rebuilding will be on a larger and more pretentious scale than was possible when the city was laid out.

Mr. Morgan says that the valley, though suffering from the bad times, is considerably better off than other parts of the state. The alfalfa crops are always valuable and the feeding of hogs and cattle is the source of some profit. The weather, though hot—the thermometer standing for some time about 110 in the shade—is not out of the ordinary experience of the valley and everything is in good condition. As the irrigation canals have not been seriously damaged the farming section will not suffer much. Mr. Morgan's own ranch was in good shape when he left.

L. E. Brockman, 452 E. Second, says that his brother in Calexico wired that there were few business buildings remaining standing in Calexico that were safe and that he believed that the buildings in El Centro were in similar condition. His own house in Calexico probably suffered along with the rest.

D. H. Imler, 310 Park avenue, who has a ranch 7½ miles northeast of Imperial, had received no word up to noon today and it is supposed that nothing of any consequence was experienced on that property.

Among all those who are interested in the valley the belief prevails that as the water system is undamaged there will be no setback to development in that section.

HO, LISTEN!

Tonight you are welcome to the special musical by Prof. Laichinger to hear Miss Brewer on "India and Its Strange Sights and Insights" in the Seventh Day Adventist church, corner Third and Isabel. Musical begins at 7:15. After spending 20 years in that great land of India, in the city of Guntur, and having had charge of the Girls' Boarding School Miss Brewer is well informed to speak in bringing all a message long to be remembered. One of the special features will be the peculiar music of India reproduced by the graphophone. You and your friends are cordially welcome.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

EIGHTY-SIX LITTLE TOTS LISTEN TO INDIAN STORIES AT LIBRARY

Never was the value of publicity more clearly demonstrated than yesterday morning at the Glendale public library when eighty-six small children thronged the main room of the building to listen to the stories told by the librarian, Mrs. John C. Danford, and her assistant, Miss Scott. A single notice in the Glendale Evening News brought the large audience together.

This new arrangement throws the library open for this purpose one day a week for one hour, between 9 and 10 a. m. That the children's hour is going to be popular was manifest from the intense interest taken in the stories by the children. Picturesque descriptions of Indian life riveted their attention and the large class was on its good behavior throughout the whole session.

Mrs. Danford gave special attention during the latter part of the hour to directing the children as to what they should read. This guidance in book selection is certain to be highly appreciated by the children who will thus be saved many baffling searches for the right book. Under this direction the children are likely to profit in many ways and the lessons they learn will remain with them.

The citizens of Glendale will hold a banquet followed by a reception to Congressman C. H. Randall Tuesday evening, June 29. The banquet will be served at 6 o'clock in the evening in the dining room of the Glendale sanitarium and the reception will follow at 8 o'clock at the High School auditorium. The citizens who are making the arrangements have invited Mr. Mattison B. Jones to serve as toast master. The city trustees have been invited to occupy an honored position on the platform of the High School auditorium. The program will be composed of humorous readings, songs by male quartet, address by O. O. Clark, Congressman Randall and others.

The admission to the reception at the school is free, but a charge of 50 cents per place will be made for the banquet. Banquet tickets may be purchased at Munson's Drug store, McGillis', Roberts & Echols, Glenday Book Store. Secure the tickets early that the committee in charge may be able to make an intelligent report to those preparing the banquet as to the numbers to be served.

A PATRIOTIC MEETING

The Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church, Third and Central, have arranged for a great patriotic service on Monday evening, June 27. The young people have secured the well-known lecturer Dr. James Henry McLaren, to give his great lecture, "The Flags of the World." The admission is free. In this lecture the speaker treats of world patriotism. It deals with the history, the legends, the great men, the statesmanship of many peoples, from Egypt, Rome, Greece, to the nations of today.

In this day of the world wars this lecture will be of special interest. Glendale has been privileged to hear Dr. McLaren in his able lecture on "Bobbie Burns."

IS YOUR NAME ENTERED

LIST OF CANDIDATES ENTERED IN CONTEST WILL BE PUBLISHED TOMORROW

Not many people nowadays believe in the old adage, "Good things come to those who wait."

Very few business men of today can afford to take this adage to heart in the full sense, realizing that to get business of the right sort, it is necessary to go after it.

To do something, to let the public know where to get that which is best for their needs.

Nearly every successful business man of today remembers only too well the necessity of going after business when he made his beginning the all-important start.

The subsequent success in a great majority of cases is due to the methods pursued in reaching out after business, giving publicity to the things that are worth while.

The Evening News is interested in this contest and begs you not to put off entering until it is too late. You have as good a chance as any one to win if you get started and go after the subscriptions and votes in this contest.

The plans and methods of this $2000 contest are such that those that help in the undertaking will be rewarded handsomely, strictly on the merits of their ambition or energy.

The list of contestants already entered will be published in tomorrow's issue of The News. Is your name going to be in this list? The answer rests entirely with you.

The prizes are well worth anyone's effort. The $850.00 Maxwell is fully equipped and the machines sold at the local Maxwell agency have made good, and a real auto in every sense of the word.

The Schiller piano is well known all over the country and is an instrument of inherent worth and would certainly make a welcome addition to almost any home. Then there are trips to either of the expositions, three $75.00 scholarships to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college, a $50.00 bank deposit at the First National bank and other prizes not yet advertised.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT

There will be a grand benefit entertainment under the management of the American-Polish Relief committee of Los Angeles for the benefit of the war sufferers of Poland at the Knights of Columbus auditorium, 612 S. Flower St., Saturday, June 26, 1915, at 8 p. m. This committee is associated with the general relief committee of Europe, of which Henryk Sienkiewicz is president and Ignace Jan Paderewski is vice president. Col. John Sobieska is president of the Los Angeles committee and J. Romanowicz (Roman) of Glendale is a vice president.

A program of great excellence has been arranged and it is hoped the attendance will be worthy of the great object in view.

MONROVIA'S DECISION

A few months ago while street improvements were being made in the city of Monrovia, the trustees requested that the Santa Fe, the Southern Pacific and the Pacific Electric railroads all have their tracks brought to grade at the various crossings. The Santa Fe company and the Pacific Electric company complied with the request, but the Southern Pacific company that unless the request is complied with within thirty days, the franchise allowing the company to run trains through the city of Monrovia will be taken from the company.

RETURN FROM SAN FRANCISCO

Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith and niece, Lucille Negley, have just returned from San Francisco, after an absence of about two weeks.

They combined pleasure and business in the trip; all going to see the exposition, and the doctor to attend the meeting of the National Eclectic Medical association, which convened in San Francisco on June 14-18, inclusive, as a delegate from his state medical society.

Dr. T. C. Young and Dr. Smith both read papers at this meeting.

PASADENA MEN COMING

The meetings being conducted by Rev. H. J. Hartsell of the West Glendale Methodist church this week have been very successful and will continue next week. The pastor has been preaching every night. Tonight the meeting will be in charge of the gospel team from the First Methodist church of Pasadena and an enthusiastic and rousing time is expected. Any and all are welcome at these meetings. Come.

PROHIBIT FIREWORKS

POLICE DEPARTMENT WILL ENFORCE ORDINANCE FOR A SANE FOURTH

There is on the statute books of the city of Glendale an ordinance prohibiting the discharging of explosives on any public occasion within the city limits. This ordinance was passed in the interests of safety, especially for the young. More and more, of late years, children are being taught to express their patriotism on Independence Day in ways not dangerous to life and limb and this is a step in the right direction.

Chief of Police George H. Herald announces that this ordinance will be strictly enforced this year. The section of the ordinance referred to reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to discharge or explode any fireworks, torpedoes, firecrackers or other explosives, or to explode any anvil or cannon within the limits of the city of Glendale, except upon public occasion, when written permission shall first have been obtained from the board of trustees of the city of Glendale, which said permission shall fix the time and place and restrict the manner in which such public demonstration shall be held."

THRILLING PROBLEM FILM AT THE PALACE GRAND TONIGHT

Should or can a re-ward employ men who drink? You can find the answer in the sensational feature film, "Rule G," to be shown at the Palace Grand tonight and Thursday.

The story of the photoplay may be briefly recounted as follows: Jordan, president of a great railroad system, appoints Silent Smith, a detective, to investigate the cause of the many accidents which occur on his line. Smith, after an exhaustive investigation, during which the vicious effect of booze is plainly brought to the attention of the audience, tells Jordan that if he will prohibit the use of intoxicants among his employees he will minimize the danger. This Jordan proceeds to do, and he posts Rule G on the books. Spike Lacey, one of the men addicted to the use of liquor, is greatly incensed at the new rule and suggests to one of the local saloon keepers that he put up a blind pig where the men can get a nip now and then. This is done, and the drinking goes on, sub rosa.

Meanwhile, Ned Douglas, a rising young mechanic, is boarding with the Westons. Spike is also interested in Myra Weston, whose engineer-father is one of the most enthusiastic drinkers on the line. Ned is interested by Atterbury in the project for bettering conditions among the railroad employees, and eventually becomes one of the heartiest supporters of the new regime. To shorten a rather long tract, he and Myra are instrumental in circumventing Spike and his gang in their attempts against the railroad shops. Ned also exposes Spike when the latter uses intimidation to force old Weston's hand and to persuade Myra to marry him.

The plan contains many novel scenes and several bits of "thriller" guaranteed to produce one or two contractions of the spinal cord. It is, as may be supposed, melodrama of the most approved kind. Drink-sodden villains vie with abstemious heroes for the love of beautiful women. The heroine oversees the embryonic plans for dynamiting the railroad shops evolved by Spike Lacey, the besodden villain. She makes her escape on a motor handcar to warn prospective victims, while the dynamiters pursue her on another handcar—a criticism which applies to many other scenes of the picture. Among these might be mentioned the fight between Spike Lacey and Ned Douglas, which recalls to mind the realistic activities of William Farnum and Thomas Santschi in their famous fight scene. The railroad wreck, as it might have occurred had not Ned's block system saved the day, is another thrilling feature of the picture. A caption preceding this, it might be said, would help clarity. The scene which depicts the drunken engineer at the throttle, rushing over the grade crossing without giving any warning of the approach of his train, is remarkably done. The fake is so well staged that it looks as if the cowcatcher had actually hit the wagon full of people, hurling horse and occupants many feet from the track. Several fine bits of photography, one in particular in which the train is shown speeding across the country in front of the sinking sun, help to make the film good.

The practice of thrift and good management take much of the hardness out of hard times.

THE VALUE OF DECISION

Nothing is more detrimental to success in life than indecision. The man who is continually hesitating what he shall do first is likely to end in doing nothing; or if he at last makes up his mind is likely to find that his opportunity has passed. The course of everyday life is a mighty stream, ever hurrying along, and it does not do to stand shivering on the brink. By plunging in boldly one discovers the necessity for exertion and the method of exerting oneself is determined by the necessity. Fluctuating from one opinion to another, veering from one route to another, blown about by every wind of advice, one is apt to find that he is steering no course at all. Such people never accomplish anything great or anything useful.

It is of course necessary to consult wisely and then to make one's resolve and to adhere to it with an inflexible will. A thousand petty difficulties will be certain to encounter one in the course of such determination. To the brave spirit these are further incentives to exertion. They give zest to the struggle and never succeed in making the resolute spirit alter his course one point in the compass. A man who sets out in life with this spirit will go far and is sure to attain eminence in the end.

Hamlet's famous soliloquy is a striking example of this vacillating quality of soul. "To be or not to be—that is the question." So he went on undecided and hesitating until at last like so many unstable spirits he involved himself and all connected with him in ruin and death. "Unstable as water thou shalt not excel."

It is the fault of those who see all sides of a question that they find it impossible to take any side. We find in this world the necessity of taking one line of action and adhering to it. Indecision is often a disease of excessive mental culture. The man who is cursed by this spirit of vacillation is usually pushed aside in the race of life, while the determined individual, with not one-half the other's accomplishments, succeeds. The man who knows what he wants usually gets it. The man who is not sure is likely to hesitate so long that another steps in before him. In business to be able to take a risk at some crucial juncture is often to cast the deciding weight in the scale in one's own favor. Hamlet knew that "to take up arms against a sea of troubles and by opposing end them" was a right course of action; but he did not decide to do so until too late.

So important is the habit of decision that it is better to take the chance of an occasional mistake than not to act at all. A man of this character, even if he should decide wrongly one time, learns by his mistake and profits by it. Decision of character is a most useful quality, for it implies accurate perception and clear reasoning and with these as our guides we are not in danger of jumping at the wrong conclusion.

BEING ABLE TO SAY "NO"

For young people entering on life there is no quality more valuable than the ability to say "No." It may seem singular that anyone should allow himself or herself to be persuaded to do what is manifestly wrong or even only inadvisable; but it is a well-known tendency in human nature to have an inclination to what savors of illegality. It is human to err, says the Latin poet. The straight path and the right path seems easy to take once one has lost all inclination to tramp along the flowery roadway that is offered by the other; but everyone does not find it easy to do what is the right thing. "Allah, give us wisdom to do the right thing," was the prayer of the old Persian mullah.

To say "No"—how many a heartache and misery would the faculty save the shortsighted beings who have not the moral courage to adopt this course. The temptations of the world are the same in every age. The thrill of a nerve; the tickling of the palate; the rustle of a silk gown; the turn of a card—the baits that the tempter holds out to youth are very poor, very paltry, and yet they annually catch the flower of our youth, whirl it into the maze of life only to fling it out again, with broken fortune, ruined character and possibly ruined health.

If a young man or a young woman cannot practice self-denial; if he or she will yield or give way and "take what the world offers," the end is most likely to be falsehood, fraud and wilful deceit, followed by ruin, absolute and profound. The young man or young woman who cannot say "No" is everybody's friend except his own. He is his own worst enemy. To do what everybody asks is to be one's own enemy and to court an end that is most undesirable.

No wonder that Christ, while telling his disciples to be harmless as doves, also took the precaution of warning them to be wise as serpents. The dividing line between the paths that diverge is infinitesimal. It is a mere point—position without magnitude. Young people stand at the separation of the roads. They find themselves suddenly called on to make the decision which road they shall take. Then is the time to be able to say "No." After the first "No" life takes on its real formative period. To be unable to say "No" is to find that one has given a twist and bias to one's life which it may never recover. Life is never the same again after that first mistake.

The two roads may appear to be close together for a time, but inevitably they begin to separate. They are not parallel lines which might continue indefinitely at the same distance from each other. The farther on one goes, the farther one diverges from the point at which both lines started. So the two paths go on to infinity farther and farther away from each other.

To be able to say "No" is one of the divine gifts to men. It is the greatest power to make and keep one happy in this world. Sin may please for a time; but in the end it demands a price far above what it was worth, even judging it from the standpoint of pleasure. There is the highest and the most lasting pleasure and enjoyment in the heavenly endowment that enables one to say "No" and to go on one's way without one lingering look behind at the so-called pleasures one has refused.

CONCENTRATION OF EFFORT

Many valuable lessons come to the world from the field of war in Europe. One of the most valuable of these is the lesson of concentration of effort. War may be an unutterable evil and the battlefield a horrible shambles, but war is one theater of action where mistakes are fatal. Therefore, we find there, on the winning sides at least, nothing left undone that can make for success. The Germans wanted to recapture Przemyśl and to press on to Lemberg, therefore they concentrated all the men and field guns they could gather together just at that point and with 2,000,000 men and 2000 huge guns battered and overwhelmed the Russians and drove them in headlong flight to their own borders.

It was this concentration of efforts that made victory possible. In similar manner the French concentrated their troops and battered away at the German lines to the West. It has always been the secret of success in war to deceive the enemy into thinking an attack was to be made at one point and then to concentrate a preponderating force somewhere else.

In life the man who concentrates his efforts is certain to win success. Concentration is the best economizer of time and energy. Time lost is gone forever. Therefore it is wise to direct one's efforts to get anything done at the psychological moment. That moment past it is often impossible to find opportunity again.

Concentration is the spirit of order in human life. It is the premier leader in private economy. The well-being of society often depends on it. The man who concentrates his energies on one point in life is doing far better for the world, as well as himself, than if he were to dissipate his energies through a thousand different channels. Sending the full current of his natural forces through one channel and deepening and widening his course, he at last dominates the whole route with his resistless energy.

Concentration is the key to wealth; diffusion of force the certain road to failure. By dint of keeping at one thing all the time a person acquires sufficient familiarity with its details to be entitled to be considered an expert. An expert is always entitled to consideration and can command a higher market than the commonplace performer of duty.

How often does the world stand in amazement at the spectacle of the brilliant genius who has come to a miserable end simply because his faculties were wasted in all directions instead of being directed on one point. No mind can work in the most effective way when it is distracted by a thousand different considerations. Whether in athletics or in literature; in art or in science, the specialist is the one who bears away the palm.

The world of knowledge is so wide in these days that not one person out of a ten thousand has either opportunity or leisure to familiarize himself with it all. Therefore the most profitable course for success in this world is to know something about everything, but above all to know everything about something.

A MYSTERY

The war in Europe is one of the most mysterious things that ever happened.

How and why it began is a curious conundrum.

Every government engaged did its best to prevent it.

All the crowned rulers prayed to God to keep them out of it.

Nobody wanted it.

All the powers that are fighting only took up arms in self defense.

It was a last resort with each of them to keep the other from wiping them off the earth.

Every one of the governments fired the first shot, and each government only fired back after it was attacked.

Once started, nobody could quit shooting.

That is why the bloody thing has kept on going.

It is for the purpose of meeting just such mysterious outbreaks that all Christendom goes armed to the teeth.

None of the powers that be that are running this earth want war.

No—not even if there is billions of boodle in it.

The ruling classes are all good, pious, peace-loving people.

They are all—the last mother's son of them professing Christians.

Most of them are saints.

We know this because they all bear testimony of each other's piety.

The only reason the ruling classes of the world want big navies and big armies is because, in spite of all their pious and prayerful attempts to maintain peace, war are nevertheless liable to break out. That the pious ruling classes manage to get life-long interest bearing mortgages plastered on all the warring nations cuts no ice.

It's peace, not profits, that the lords of the earth yearn for.

Even while demanding the big navies and big armies they pray for peace.

Nobody in Europe is so horrified at the war as the powers directing the fighting.

Every one of them have assured us that they are in no way responsible for the slaughter.

It's the mystery of mysteries how it started.

And they all declare what a providential thing it was that each one was prepared to defend themselves when hell's fury broke loose.

They are all telling the women of the working classes to hurry up and breed a lot of boy babies to become soldiers for the next war that nobody wants, and to prevent which they will do all they possibly can besides praying to God.

The horror that these people who live on the interest of national debts piled up in war hate war is a sight.

As a riddle it is only equalled by the faith they have in their prayers for peace, while, at the same time, they are running their ammunition factories at full blast.

Modern war is some mystery—to hear the beneficiaries tell it.

FOOTBALL CLUB

The recent meeting of the Football club at the beautiful home of Mrs. Menzo Williams was a very happy affair. Mrs. Williams was assisted in receiving and entertaining her guests by her son, Miss Ellen Williams. Vases and baskets of Shasta daisies and roses were used in decorating and added much to the afternoon's pleasure.

The guests were entertained by Miss Emma Jones, who gave a selection from "The Bird's Christmas Carol" and other readings, which were very kindly received. Misses Nettie Williams and Miss Bertha Peterson sang the jubilee of all nations and Miss Peterson sang "The Girl." The ladies were each given a task to perform and those most capable with the needle were awarded prizes. A surprise in the form of a shower of dainty articles was a feature of the afternoon's entertainment that was enjoyed by all.

TROPICO

There is a display in the Knights of Pythias hall in Tropico of more than usual interest to the many thousands of visitors who are being entertained in Tropico today as the guests of Visor lodge, K. P.'s, at the great street carnival given by them.

This banner is the property of O. P. Snyder, an esteemed fellow citizen and the past grand master of Ex. of Ohio, and has been loaned by Mr. Snyder to the local lodge to be displayed by them. This banner is of more interest than that of merely beauty and artistic arrangement, for it is the largest K. of P. badge banner in the world, is made entirely of K. of P. badges, is three feet wide and five feet long; both sides are covered by badges representing every state and territory in the union. On one side is the picture of the supreme chancellor of the world, Howard Douglas of Ohio, (now deceased) set in the colors of the order. On the opposite side is the picture of the owner, O. P. Snyder, who as past master of Ex. of Ohio, set in an embroidered K. of P. shield. This banner has been on exhibition in many of the larger eastern cities, upon occasions of fraternal events and grand lodge sessions, but this is the first occasion the banner has been on exhibition in California. The badges composing this handsome banner were collected by Mr. Snyder while attending K. of P. conventions or fraternal gatherings of this order. Mr. Snyder, who has always been a booster of Tropico and who has a local and civic pride in Tropico and all of its publicity events, at the request of Frank Davis, secretary of the street carnival committee, loaned this valuable and historic banner for this great event.

Every one is attending the great street carnival, Tropico is in her gayest holiday attire. Fun, music, laughter and all kinds of sports, dancing and a jolly good time reign supreme. Tropico extended a warm welcome to her thousands of visitors and the unstinted hospitality of this city is being thoroughly enjoyed.

EAGLE ROCK

Last Wednesday preceding the presentation of diplomas to the graduates of Occidental college, Miss Helena McKelvey gave the class salutatory; Earl McDermot, a graduating orator; Miss Florence Moote, the valedictory. The officers of the graduating class are Donald Smiley, president; Gladys Boyd, vice-president; Grace Wylie, secretary; Leland Chapman, treasurer; Winifred Graham, assistant treasurer.

Rev. Greene, formerly a pastor of a Baptist church in Chicago and an evangelist of note, delivered a most inspiring sermon Sunday evening at the Methodist church. The attendance was very large and this proves his sermon was well worth coming to hear.

The Eagle Rock Tennis club was reorganized with Robert Crandall as president. It is needless to say the club will prosper under the management of the new officers, especially Robert, who is very enthusiastic over tennis. The court will be put in order immediately and the club will be open soon for the reception of new members.

Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain of Los Angeles are now domiciled in their new home on North Highland avenue. Mr. House put in the cement work about the house for them.

Misses Alta and Bessie Jillson, who attended college here, living in the Daniel's apartments on Sycamore avenue, returned to their home last week at Dinuba.

General Sampson and wife, who have spent some time here visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Beath, and family, of Ridgeway avenue, returned to their home in Phoenix, Ariz., last week. They have made many friends here who will greatly miss them.

This week, Sunday, the Epworth league of the Methodist church will have charge of the vesper service at the County hospital at 3 o'clock p. m. The pastor of this church will accompany the leaguers and will deliver a sermon. There will also be special music.

Rev. Greene and daughter, Miss Ruth, of Chicago, will visit relatives in this city on Eagle avenue.

The exhibition of original drawings and paintings done by the school children of the primary department are now on exhibit at the library and are receiving much comment.

Mrs. G. Candee and daughter, Miss Lois, of Ellenwood drive, are enjoying an outing at Forest Home.

The annual camp meeting at Huntington Beach, conducted by Brown and Curry, will begin July 5th. A number from here are planning to attend.

A visit to the public library on Friday afternoon, "the story hour," will show how much interest is created by the little tots who are too small to read. The librarian each Friday afternoon at this appointed hour meets the children in the children's section of the library and reads to them some story that is very interesting to boys and girls, as well as educating. This Friday she will take them in the auditorium of the library and show some stereopticon views of Germany and will relate bits of interesting tales about that country.

Tuesday evening the members of the Congregational church will hold a reception at the church for the new pastor, Rev. Knopf. A large number are expected as the other churches in the city have been invited to help welcome the new pastor of this church.

Mr. and Mrs. House and children of Palm street visited with Mr. and Mrs. Willis of Glendale Sunday. Mrs. House and Mrs. Willis are sisters.

Nineteen, the largest number that has ever graduated from the Eagle Rock school, received their diplomas last Friday evening when the graduating exercises were held at the Congregational church. Previous to the presentation of diplomas the following program was given:

Invocation, pastor of M. E. church, Rev. Smith.

Chorus, "Pilgrim's Chorus."

Oration, "The Growth of the Moving Picture Industry," William Taylor.

Recitation, "Thoughts for the Discouraged Farmer," Marjorie Wilson.

Recitation, "If," Elmer Gee.

Essay, "What the Eagle Saw," Muriel Gardenar.

Oration, "Importance of Grammar School Work," Oran Branscombe.

Music, piano and violin, Howard Funder and Eber Slaughter.

Essay, "California in Literature," Helen Berg.

Recitation, "Epamiondas and His Auntie," Mabel Munyon.

Story, "What He Lacked," George Sherwood.

Class prophecy, Dorothy Johns.

Chorus, "Commencement Day."

Diplomas were then presented to the following: Helen Berg, Oran Branscombe, Wilber Ebermayer, Howard Funder, Elmer Gee, Muriel Gardenar, Dorothy Johns, Raymond Kolbe, Harry Lawton, Oscar Laesser, Raymond McBurney, Malrel Munyon, Eugene Proelss, George Sherwood, Eber Slaughter, J. Sparks Sprague, William Taylor, James West, Marjorie Wilson.

property on Colorado boulevard is nearing completion and certainly attracts attention of all passersby as it is a most beautiful piece of work and Contractor House and his helpers deserve much praise for the work. At equal distances apart are pillars of darker color than the rest of the wall which they join and these have cement caps on the tops.

A birthday surprise party was given at the Kolbe home on Fairmont avenue last Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Alice Kolbe's birthday. It was a complete surprise to her as it was that night that the Tennis club held its business meeting at her home and after the meeting friends greeted her with the hearty surprise. Games and conversation took up the evening and dainty refreshments were served. Rev. and Mrs. Martin Post have returned to their home on Ridgeway avenue after having spent a delightful time at the San Francisco exposition. W. E. Bruce has sold his drug store to a Mr. Long, who recently came here from the east. Mr. Bruce is well known in this city, having been the first to conduct a store here. He and his wife will leave shortly for Massachusetts, the latter's former home, where they will spend some time renewing old acquaintances.

They will be greatly missed by the large circle of friends in the valley, who deeply regret their leaving, but wish them the best of success wherever they may locate. Here's hoping they may decide to again make Eagle Rock their home.

It is said that had "Rule G," the big feature film which is booked at the Palace Grand theater tonight, been prepared for a showing before the house of representatives during last fall's prohibition campaign, there could hardly have been a more violent bit of anti-booze propaganda. To balance the bill with a bit of humor, the clever American comedy, "Just Tramps," will also be shown.
